Church Administration & History

A07 African American Lutheran History

The history of Black Lutherans truly is an untold story. Join Pr. Stewart for a glimpse of research done in the history of Lutherans of African descent, primarily in the United States. The research followed the writing of Roses and Thorns by Richard C. Dickinson and preceded the writing of Black Christians: The Untold Lutheran Story by Jeff G. Johnson. Richard N. Stewart

A11 On Being a Church Council Member

A look at what it takes to have good church council members - orientation of council leaders, focus on spiritual leadership, climate at the meetings, commitment required to be a church council member, and processes for running a meeting that will make being a church council member something qualified people enjoy. H. Gerard Knoche

B07 Effective Planning for Congregations

Life in congregations can be quite tiring considering the amount of activities and programs that can place demands on the time of the members and the pastor. How can attention to administrative detail improve the situation for all involved? Richard Stewart

B09 Small but Mighty - Effective Planning for Small Congregations

God has given every congregation a mission. Do you think your congregation is too small to do anything? Come and find out how small congregations can effectively reach out in mission using asset-based planning. Helen Harms

Workshop Leaders

Helen Harms, one of three ELCA Division for Outreach Mission Directors in Region 8, working primarily in the area of new congregational development and the renewal of congregations
